Yankees Triumph In Third

... TO GAIN EDGE

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 4—(AP)—Fred Fitzsimmons, 40-year-old fatman, placed his knuckleball in opposition to the curves of young Lefty Marius Russo of the New York Yankees today as the Brooklyn Dodgers brought the world series to their own park for the first time in 21 years.

Fifteen minutes before game time the little park, holding 32,000, was not nearly filled. The bleachers had been packed for hours, and the box and reserved seats were sold.

Manager Leo Durocher's decision to start the veteran Fitzsimmons in the third game of the series came as something of a surprise to most observers, although the big fellow has been beaten only three times in the last two seasons. He has been used as a spot hurler and had a record of six victories and one defeat for the recent National league campaign.

The afternoon was warm and sunny, but the field was still spongy from yesterday's all-day showers.

The lineups:

YANKEES—	DODGERS—
Sturm, 1b	Reese, ss
Rolfe, 3b	Herman, 2b
Henrich, rf	Reiser, cf
DiMaggio, cf	Medwick, lf
Keller, lf	Lavagetto, 3b
Dickey, c	Camilli, 1b
Gordon, 2b	Walker, rf
Rizzuto, ss	Owen, c
Russo, p	Fitzsimmons, p

Umpires—At plate, Grieve, American league; at first base—Goetz, National league; at second base—McGowan, American league; at third base—Pinelli, National league.

FIRST INNING.

YANKEES—After working the count to two and two, Sturm lifted a long fly to Reiser in dead center. With the count one and one, Rolfe knocked a looping fly into short left center and Medwick ran in fast to take it. Henrich popped a high foul back of the third base coaching box and Lavagetto bagged it.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

DODGERS—Reese bunted on the second pitch and Russo came into pick it up and throw him out. Herman waited out a three and two count and then walked. After getting two straight balls and a called strike, Reiser bounced to Russo who wheeled and threw to Rizzuto forcing Herman at second, but the relay to first failed to catch Reiser. Medwick lined to Henrich in deep right.

SECOND INNING.

YANKEES—With the count two and two, Dimaggio smashed a ground single between short and third for his first hit of the series. Keller grounded out to Camilli, unassisted, Dimaggio stopping at second. Dickey lifted a foul which Camilli took just back of first. Gordon lifted a high fly which Walker came clear over into centerfield to catch.

DODGERS—Lavagetto drew a base on balls. Camilli looped a liner over Russo's head and the ball bounced just in front of Rizzuto, who took it and stepped on second, then threw to Sturm for a double play. Walker knocked an easy grounder to Rolfe and was thrown out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING.

YANKEES—Rizzuto bounced to Fitzsimmons and was thrown out. Medwick ran far over into left center to drag down Russo's fly. Sturm hit the first pitch back at Herman and was thrown out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

DODGERS—On the second pitch Owen lifted a fly to Dimaggio in short center. Fitzsimmons raised a high fly to Keller. Reese grounded out to Rizzuto.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING.

YANKEES—Rolfe picked out the second pitch and singled to center. Henrich sent a fast roller to Reese, who ran several yards to step on second base for a forceout but pulled Camilli off first base trying for a double play and Henrich was safe. With the count one and one on Dimaggio, Owen threw to Camilli and picked Henrich off base. Henrich apparently slid hard against Camilli's legs in trying to get back and Camilli shoved Henrich's head down as the runner was trying to arise. Umpire Goetz rushed over and pushed Camilli away. After taking another called strike, Dimaggio raised a high fly which Camilli took on the edge of the grass midway between first and second. He tossed the ball aside quickly and Dimaggio raced on to second insisting that Camilli had not held possession of the ball. However he was overruled.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

DODGERS—Gordon made a nice pickup of a smash by Herman and threw him out. On the first pitch Reiser lined to Gordon. Medwick topped the ball down the third base line and while the Yankees hovered around and waited for it to roll foul it came to a stop on fair territory for a single and Brooklyn's first hit of the game. Gordon made a spectacular leap to stab Lavagetto's liner.

FIFTH INNING.

YANKEES—Pete Coscarart, who had warmed up in Brooklyn's bullpen during the second inning, replaced Herman at second base for the Dodgers. On the first pitch Keller grounded to Coscarart and was thrown out. Dickey drove a long fly to Reiser in right center. It was announced that Herman had hurt his side in batting practice before the game. Gordon drove a liner which struck the railing in front of the center field stands about 10 feet high and 390 feet from the plate and it bounced back onto the field for a triple. Rizzuto was intentionally walked. Rizzuto stole second as Fitzsimmons cut off Owen's throw and tried unsuccessfully to catch Gordon off third. Russo struck out on four pitches.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

DODGERS—Camilli struck out. Walker slapped the first pitch to Gordon and was thrown out. Owen drove a long fly to Dimaggio in centerfield.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING.

YANKEES—Sturm dropped a single which fell in short center just in front of Reiser. Sturm stole second, Owen making a good throw which Sturm apparently kicked out of Reese's hand. Rolfe attempted to sacrifice on the first pitch and popped a foul to Owen. Henrich walked on four pitches. Hugh Casey and Larry French began warming up in Brooklyn's bullpen. Dimaggio waited out a three and two count and then lifted a fly to Walker in right field, the runners being held on their bases by a fine throw-in. Keller grounded down the first base line to Camilli who ran up and touched the bag.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

DODGERS—Rizzuto ran over back of Rolfe to take Fitzsimmons' grounder and threw him out even though the long toss hit the ground in front of Sturm. Reese lined to Keller. Russo deflected Coscarart's grounder to Rolfe who threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING.

YANKEES—Dickey grounded to Coscarart and was thrown out. After getting the count to three and two Gordon walked. Rizzuto grounded to Coscarart and was thrown out as Gordon stopped at second. Russo hit a line drive which struck Fitzsimmons on the left knee and sailed high into the air. Reese running over past second base to catch it for the out. Fitzsimmons was helped limping off the field.

DODGERS—After taking one strike, Reiser slammed a terrific liner against the rightfield wall about 30 feet high and 380 feet out, the ball bouncing back for a double. Medwick struck out on three pitches, but Dickey dropped the third strike and had to throw him out at first. Gordon ran over behind second base to take Lavagetto's hot roller and throw him out as Reiser reached third. Camilli was called out on strikes.

EIGHTH INNING.

YANKEES—Hugh Casey, a chubby right-hander, came in to pitch for the Dodgers. Sturm lined to Raiser who made a running catch in left center. Rolfe lined a single into right field. Henrich knocked a grounder back of first base and beat Coscarart's throw to Casey for a single, Rolfe stopping at second. Dimaggio worked the count to three and two and then shot a single into right center scoring Rolfe and sending Henrich to third. With the count two balls and one strike, Keller slammed a single into left center scoring Henrich and putting Dimaggio on third. Durocher called in Lefty Larry French from the bullpen. Dickey grounded into a double play, Reese taking his roller and stepping on second before throwing to Camilli.

Two runs, four hits, no errors, one left.

DODGERS—Walker hit the first pitch on a line into right center and Henrich knocked it down with a dive onto his face, holding Walker to a double. Owen bounced to Russo who threw to Sturm for the out. Walker holding second. Galan, a right-handed hitter, batted for French and struck out. Reese drove a single into the rightfield corner, scoring Walker. Coscarart popped high to Rolfe.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Hitler Returns

BERLIN, Oct. 4—(AP)—Adolf Hitler returned to the eastern warfront immediately after his speech in Berlin yesterday.

It was announced that the fuehrer visited Field Marshal Gen. Walther Von Brauchtisch's headquarters to congratulate the general on his 60th birthday.

Heavy Fighting

(By the Associated Press.)

Big csale Russian counter-attacks in defense of the Crimea and heavy fighting along a line now running almost straight from that Black sea peninsula to Leningrad were described today in dispatches on the Russian-German war.

The Germans reported new overnight bombings of Leningrad and Moscow, while the British raided Rotterdam, Antwerp and Dunkerque. The Germans admitted the Rotterdam raid was a heavy one and that 60 persons were killed and 300 wounded.

In the battle of the Atlantic, the Germans announced sinking of four "enemy" merchantmen, including a large tanker, but did not specify whether this might refer to the American-owned I. C. White, whose torpedoing east of Brazil with possible loss of 16 men was disclosed late yesterday.

"Extensive Operations"

Although the German high command merely reported extensive operations in progress on the eastern front, dispatches from the belligerent capitals indicated the nazi thrust toward the industrialized Donets basin in southern Russia apparently was the main danger to the soviet.

From authoritative sources in London, however, came word that the Russian forces were driving from Melitopol in the Crimea in a determined offensive to save the Crimean peninsula which is

Tanker Sinking Irks Hull

... 8th American Ship

He Asserts Every Nation Has Right To Defend Against Attacks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull today vigorously denounced the action of a submarine in sinking the American-owned oil tanker I. C. White in the South Atlantic.

The secretary made the unusual gesture of permitting correspondents to quote him in declaring that sinking of the oil tanker "seems to be another act of lawlessness, piracy, and attempted frightfulness in connection with the general movement to drive people off the Atlantic ocean, which is part of the world movement of conquest."

Hull added, in reply to questions, that regardless of the flag the I. C. White was flying or whether it was in a convoy, every nation had the inherent right of self-defense in meeting attacks which he described as part of an attempted conquest of the earth.

Aid To Britain.

In such unusual circumstances, he said, abstractions of international law must be construed and dealt with in the light of self-defense.

The secretary emphasized in his remarks that the United States was committed to a policy of do-

Michigan Takes Early 6-0 Lead

... Over Hawkeyes

FIRST PERIOD.

An estimated 30,000 fans saw the kickoff.

Bill Parker of Iowa's Hawkeyes returned Al Wistert's kick-off to the Iowa 32-yard line. Bill Green and Bernard Mertes alternated at lugging the ball for two first downs before the Michigan line stiffened. Jim Youel's pass was knocked down by Harold Lockard, giving the Wolverines the ball on their own 30.

After an Iowa off-side penalty, Tom Kuzma punted to Youel, who was brought down on his 24. Two more penalties, for too much time and holding, helped force Iowa back to its 7 before regaining the ball. Kuzma returned Youel's punt from the Iowa 40 to the 18 and Westfall gave Michigan a first down on the 3 with two line bucks, setting the stage for a touchdown plunge by Kuzma. Bill Melzow's kick was blocked, making the score Iowa 0, Michigan 6.

SECOND PERIOD.

A brilliant Iowa running attack paced by Green and Mertes, helped by Youel's punting, took the ball deep into paydirt. A pass by Youel was knocked down a yard from the Wolverine goal and he then kicked out on the Michigan 19. Dave Nelson, substituting for Kuzma, booted to Iowa's 48 but Green gave the Hawks a first down on Michigan's 34 a moment later with a dash around right end.

Bradley Scores First Touchdown After Zikmund Run

... Nebraska Using T Formation

By DON KELLOGG.

CLYDE WILLIAMS FIELD, AMES, Iowa, Oct. 4.—A soft turfed field and skies that were unleashing a slight drizzle greeted the football sons of Nebraska and Iowa State here today.

The murky outlook certainly wasn't dampening the enthusiasm of the crowd which was rapidly filling the stadium for the thirty-sixth meeting between the two schools on the gridiron, however.

Iowa State officials were selling bleacher tickets at a brisk clip just before the teams came out on the field and a bumper gathering, numbering upwards of 17,000 was expected to watch the classic.

Nebraska, defending Big Six champions with a Rose Bowl reputation to uphold, was a slight favorite, although Cyclone backers were happy over the realization of a wet field.

Over here, Iowa State boosters have heard that Major Lawrence Biff Jones' 1941 edition is going to break loose with a wide open style of attack.

They figure that Iowa State, with an excellent forward wall of veterans, can handle the situation and Nebraska if the wet sod bogs down the anticipated razzle dazzle.

Nebraska, on the other hand, appeared ready for this, their opening contest.

Herb Von Goetz, North Platte guard, and Marvin Athey, Wauneta quarterback, were the only first year men in the Husker starting line-up.

Ovation For Nebraska Team.

Nebraska, equipped with their Rose Bowl uniforms and new scarlet slip-over sweaters with the name of their school spelled out on their back received a strong ovation from the Cyclone cheering section as they ran onto the field.

The starting line ups:

Nebraska—	Pos.	—Ia. State
Preston	L. E.	Heggen
Schleich	L. T.	Ash
Von Goetz	L. G.	Ethington
Meier	C.	Kirkpatrick
Abel	R. G.	Lewis (gc)
Herndon (gc)	R. T.	Barger
Kathol	R. E.	Lange
Athey	Q. B.	Lohry
Bradley	L. H.	Seaburg

Preston broke through and blocked Lohry's quick kick and Von Goetz recovered for Nebraska on the Husker 49.

NEBRASKA: Bradley went over his own right tackle for two yards. Nebraska went into a "T" formation and was penalized five yards for taking too much time. Athey took the ball from center and faded back to pass, his short flip to Bradley was incomplete. Bradley failed to gain on a wide end sweep but Iowa State drew a 15-yard penalty for roughing. It gave the Cornhuskers a penalty first down on the Iowa State 38. Francis plunged off the Cyclone right guard for five yards. Zikmund, on a reverse, made two yards, running his own left end. Stewart made the tackle. Bradley broke over his right tackle and behind perfect interference was in the clear but slipped and fell on the Iowa State 16-yard line. It was a 15-yard run. Iowa State took time out.

There were eight and one-half minutes gone in the quarter. Zikmund, on a deep reverse, took the ball from Francis and cut around his own left end to the Iowa State one-yard line. He was forced out of bounds in the coffin corner. Bradley plunged over the Cyclone left guard for a touchdown. The play crossed up the Iowa State forwards who were looking for Francis to carry the mail.

Darling punted 44 yards to Bradley, who returned to the Iowa State 49 before he was forced out of bounds. Nebraska drew a clipping penalty on the play which put the ball back on the Nebraska 36. Nebraska, including the penalty gained six yards on the kick exchange.

IOWA STATE: Lohry fumbled and recovered for a four-yard loss. Kathol made the tackle. Lohry faded back and passed to Darling on the east side lines for a one-yard gain. It was a flat pass. Darling, punting on the third down, booted the ball into the end zone for a touchback.

NEBRASKA: The Cornhuskers scrimmaged from their own 20. Heggen and Darling came up fast to toss Bradley for a two-yard loss. Bradley quick-kicked to Lohry, who brought the ball back 16 yards to the Iowa State 46.

IOWA STATE: Lohry slipped over the Husker right side for three yards, Meier made the tackle. A short pass, Lohry to Darling was complete on the Nebraska 40, Darling lateraling to Stewart who fumbled and Darling recovered for a first down on the Cornhusker 43-yard stripe as the period ended.

• • •

Hopkins May Leave His Perch By Air

. . . Blimp May Be Employed In Rescue

OMAHA, Oct. 4—(AP)—The Omaha World-Herald said in a copy-righted story today it has arranged with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. at Akron, O., for an attempt to rescue George Hopkins from the top of Devils Tower near Sundance, Wyo., with the aid of a blimp.

The newspaper said it was informed by R. E. Judd, public relations director for the Goodyear company, that the blimp "Reliance" and its ground caravan, including a crew of 16 men, will leave Akron at daybreak tomorrow.

The blimp is scheduled to arrive at Devils Tower Wednesday, when the rescue attempt will be made.

The newspaper said forest service officials in Omaha had been advised of the plan, and the officials indicated they would call off attempts of guides at Devils Tower to rescue Hopkins until the blimp arrives.

A plane was scheduled to leave here this afternoon, weather conditions permitting, for Devils Tower, carrying a portable radio for Hopkins. The radio will be dropped by parachute to Hopkins, who would use it in aiding the blimp operations.

If the air is quiet at the rocky tower when the blimp arrives, it can land on the peak or hover about it. If a wind is blowing it may be necessary to drop Hopkins a rope ladder, and haul him up inta the cabin.

SUNDANCE, Wyo., Oct. 4—(AP)—A helicopter was sought today to rescue little George Hopkins, a see-the-world adventurer and self-styled parachuting champion, from his own little world atop Devil's Tower.

The 30-year-old former instructor for the RAF and Chiang Kai-Chek in China would like nothing better after three nights on his roost in the Wyoming sky than to leave it the way he arrived—by air.

The man he won a bet from by chuting to the flat circle of rock from a plane last Wednesday morning, Earl Brocke'sby of Rapid City, S. D., asked the Sikorsky company at Los Angeles yesterday to send a helicopter, a vertical rising plane, to the pinnacle in northeastern Wyoming.

Another Climb.

Hopkins' sky island is less than 300 feet in diameter, but Brockelsby said he thought a helicopter could land and take off on it.

Two Rocky Mountain National Park rangers who climbed a third of the way up the basalt tower yesterday started up again today, but they indicated they would only seek to drive in more iron stakes and would not try to reach the summit.

Ernest Field and Warren Gorrell, the rangers, said they would not seek to bring down Hopkins until Jack Durrance, New Hampshire skier and mountain climber, had arrived to help them.

"We'll look over the 'ladder route' and probably go up to where we were yesterday," Gorrell said.

The top 800 feet of the tower, which rises 1,280 feet above the Belle Fourche river, is almost vertical.

Exchange Wise-Cracks.

Hopkins spent his third night last night atop the spire, higher than any of New York's skyscrapers, with no less discomfort than he experienced in ferrying five bombers from Newfoundland to England recently.

He had an army tent and plenty of provisions, dropped by planes which circled the area with several others most of the day like curious eagles.

At the fluted base of the tower, 1,000 spectators milled about, exchanging wise-cracks with the stranded parachutist as he peered over the edge.

Durrance and Merrill McLane, 24, of Rockport, Mass., another mountain climber, left New York by plane this morning to aid in the rescue attempts. They said they would fly to Cheyenne, Wyo., then motor here.

'U.S. Freedom Of Speech Is Endangered'

... Lindbergh Contends

Noted Isolationist Talks To Select Fort Wayne Audience

FT. WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 4—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh contends that the administration soon may move to "prevent freedom of speech among us."

He so maintained last night and also declared:

"We are approaching a point where we are no longer governed by the will of the people. We are, in fact, governed by one man who has consistently evaded the checks and balances on which representative government depends—a man who is drawing more and more dictatorial power into his own hands. We must face the fact that you and I and our generation have lost our American heritage."

Lindbergh, in his first appearance on the rostrum since his controversial Des Moines speech, spoke before a capacity crowd in the Gospel Temple. Members of the audience were admitted only by tickets distributed by the sponsoring Ft. Wayne chapter of the America First Committee and numbered between 3,500 and 3,800. Chief of Police Jule Stumpf estimated.

Gets Ovations.

They accorded the speaker standing ovations at the start and finish of his remarks and interrupted frequently with applause.

Stating that "it may be my last address," Lindbergh said: "How much longer free speech will be possible in the United States I do not know. But I do know that an administration which can throw this country into undeclared naval war against the will of the people, and without the consent of congress, can by similar methods prevent freedom of speech among us. There are many signs that such action may be taken in the near future."

Offering an explanation of his platform against intervention, he asserted:

"I have no motive in mind other than the welfare of my country and civilization. This is not the life I enjoy. Speaking is not my vocation, and political life is not my ambition."

"Will Elections Be Held?"

Lindbergh, who charged in Des Moines that the "British, the Jewish and the Roosevelt administration" were among groups "pressing" the United States toward war, told the perspiring audience in the non-sectarian temple:

"I am moved by no personal interest of animosity. I do not speak out of hate for any individuals or any people. But neither have I tried to avoid facts in order to have my speeches politically popular.

"I have told you the truth as I saw it," he stated concerning his speech making, "and I do not know of a single statement I have made that has been proven false. What I said has been distorted, from their context, motives and sentences have been removed meanings have been falsely ascribed, but the original record is there and on that I stand."

Lindbergh said "if the time comes when we can no longer meet face to face as free men, we will meet together at the election next year." He elaborated:

"But what if there are no elections next year? The time has come when we must consider even that. Such a condition may not be many steps ahead on the road our president is taking us."

U. N. Freshmen Receiving More Help This Year

... Bengtson Tells Faculty

Freshmen students of the University of Nebraska are receiving more help in solving orientation problems than ever before, Dr. N. A. Bengtson, head of the recently established junior division, reported as he addressed the faculty homecoming dinner Friday evening at the Student Union. Other speakers included John L. Champe, instructor in anthropology, and Dr. J. E. Weaver, professor of plant ecology.

Present registration records show that there are 1,587 freshmen in the university, Dr. Bengtson said, and they are all required to take a freshman orientation course. "The orientation course this year has dealt with only such things as how to study, proper living conditions, and how to use the library," he declared.

Since the junior division was founded, Bengtson stated, statistics show that fifty-four per cent of the high school graduates who applied for entrance to the university were in the upper twenty-five per cent of their high school classes. "Of all freshmen students who enroll in the university, 92 per cent come from the top 50 per cent of their high school classes," he said.

All United.

There is no appreciable difference in the intelligence of students enrolling in different colleges, Dr. Bengtson asserted. "Our job is bigger than merely keeping statistics," he declared. "We gather information on freshman students, and assign advisers from the faculty to help students with their problems. In junior division work, we are all united in one great idea—the welfare of the university."

"The Effects of the Great Drouth" was the title of Dr. Weaver's talk, in which he told what had happened to the prairies of the state during the past decade. Soil erosion has been bad for several years, he indicated, but with the return of the rain the soil is building up again.

Dr. Weaver illustrated his lecture with several photographs taken in the Nebraska dust bowl showing soil erosion from northeastern Nebraska to western Kansas.

Village 25,000 Years Old.

Mr. Champe spoke on "Problems of Plains Pre-history," and told of a prehistoric Indian village which has been excavated in Colorado, about 75 miles from the Nebraska state line. The age of the village is about 25,000 years, he reported, but it shows a high type of civilization which would compare with that found in other excavations of a much later date.

"Nebraska is in the center of a large area where we have no evidence of any permanent human dwelling, though we have done very little systematic work in the area," Mr. Champe explained.

Chancellor C. S. Boucher presided. About 300 were present.

Masons Proud Of Hitler Enmity

... Carter Declares

ALLIANCE, Neb., Oct. 4—(AP)—Justice E. F. Carter of the Nebraska Supreme court called for "real citizenship on the part of all Americans" to face the world crisis in an address here concluding the annual reunion of Scottish Rite Masons.

Justice Carter, grand master of Nebraska Masons, warned "there is no time like a national emergency for rights of free people to slip away. And when these are gone, they do not return."

He said Masons were proud of Hitler's enmity "because Masonry stands for the charity, tolerance and democracy that Hitler abhors."

—Deans of Women—

Young People Can Adjust Themselves To World Conditions

... Mrs. Boyles Says

Mrs. Verna Boyles, dean of women at the University of Nebraska, and other members of the Nebraska Association of Deans of Women and Advisers of Girls voiced their "faith in young people of today and in their ability to adjust themselves to world conditions," at their annual meeting held Friday afternoon at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Evelyn Anderson, girls' counselor at Albion high school, was elected president to head the secondary group of the association; Mrs. Gladys Van Camp, adviser to girls at Lincoln's Everett junior high school was named as secretary; with Miss Ruth E. Graves, dean of women at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln, being elected president of the college group.

Panel Discussion.

The meeting was turned over to a panel discussion which took "The Relationship of Deans and Counselors to Education for Citizenship" as its theme, and Mrs. Boyles said that deans and counselors may feel that in helping young people adjust themselves to the work of life, they are contributing to the "laboratory of living."

Miss Virginia Crawford, student at Wesleyan university, explained that extra-curricular activities are practical training for citizenship in the same way that practice scrimmages in football prepare for the game themselves.

For Co-operative Division.

Speaking as a mther, Mrs. Roy M. Green of Lincoln told the group that school authorities must remember that students living at home have home responsibilities to continue in addition to those of the school. She suggested a co-operative division between home, church, and school work.

Mrs. Van Camp, in discussing the dean's program for developing responsible citizens, said that it is important that every student be included in the general school program of activities. Miss Ethel Tilly, dean of women at Hastings college, called attention to the fact that it is more important to teach students to make a life than a living and that co-operation is better than competition.

The members of the dean's association delegated representatives from both the secondary and college sections to arrange luncheon tables at the various Nebraska State Teachers association district conventions this fall where members might meet for further discussions.

Car Theft Suspect Leaps From Auto And Makes Escape

By leaping from a moving auto and fleeing down a dark alley, the person suspected by police of taking one of two cars stolen Friday night narrowly escaped capture by officers who had pursued him in a mad chase up and down Lincoln streets.

Sighted by a police cruiser at Twenty-first and E almost immediately after the car owned by Clara Maahs, a nurse at Veterans hospital, was reported stolen from the driveway at her residence, 839 Elmwood, at 9:15 p. m., the suspect doubled back and forth on streets in the vicinity until the pursuing officers came too close.

He then braked the car down, jumped out while it was still rolling, and disappeared into an alley. The car hopped the curb and came to rest only a foot from a tree. Although the neighborhood was quickly searched, he made good his escape.

The second car to be reported stolen, was taken earlier in the evening. R. R. Burn, 2640 Sewell, phoned police that his car had been taken from in front of his home sometime between 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. This car was later recovered at Thirty-second and D street about 10:15.

Best 'Kickoff' In History For Chest Drive

Rosenlof Says Campaign Is Surest Answer To 'New Order' Ravings

Kickoff time in the Community Chest drive Friday evening saw over 700 enthusiastic volunteer workers gathered at a dinner at the Cornhusker hotel to hear the "plan of attack" in the twentieth annual campaign for funds in Lincoln. It was the biggest Chest meeting ever held.

Dr. George W. Rosenlof of the university, fired the opening gun as he told the broader aspects of this annual "mobilization for human need." "The Chest is not only the most effective way we know of giving comfort to the poor, feeding the hungry, curing the ill, and providing recreation and a better life for the underprivileged," he declared, "but it is also the surest answer to the ravings of dictators that a 'new order' is needed in America."

A return to the idealism of the founders of America is needed in this country, Dr. Rosenlof said, and asserted that he believed that the United States is facing a challenge to its democratic heritage which can be met only if individuals "are willing to work and fight for the preservation of the American way of life."

Democratic Ideal.

The Community Chest, both in organization and approach, is guided by the democratic ideal, the speaker declared, and deserves our fullest support. "If we realize the challenge to our democracy, our campaign cannot fail," he concluded.

Thomas C. Woods, president of the Chest, described briefly the solicitations arrangements for the money-raising campaign, which begins officially Monday and lasts until Oct. 15, and declared that the meeting was the "largest turnout in Chest history."

"The Community Chest idea is not passing out of existence," Mr. Woods asserted. "It is a growing movement with more than 600 Chests now operating in the country. The Chests were started during the last war, when the number of war relief drives made centralized organization imperative, but the Community Chest has proved to be even more effective in meeting social needs on the home front."

The Lincoln organization is now assisting various civic groups in Hastings to form a Chest there, Mr. Woods stated.

Traditional To "Go Over."

John F. Lawlor, general chairman of the campaign, urged the workers to great efforts, and declared, "It is traditional for the chest campaign in Lincoln to go over the top. The Chest hasn't failed to reach its goal in the last 14 years, and we know it will succeed again this year."

Chairman Lawlor introduced Governor Dwight Griswold and Mayor Richard O. Johnson, who brought "official greetings" from their respective governmental divisions and personal well-wishes for the success of the campaign.

Campaign Leaders.

A number of the leaders of the campaign were seated at the speakers' table. They included Ernest Guenzel, Kendrick Ott, S. A. Sanderson, C. C. Hellmers, E. E. Baily, C. W. D. Kinsey, W. J. Cotter, Mrs. John C. Whitten, H. W. Potter, Joyce Ayres, and L. W. Horne, executive secretary of the Chest.

Secretary Horne praised the leaders in the chest movement, and said, "We who have been with the Chest from its earliest years marvel again and again at the quality of leadership. Many of our workers have been in the campaign every year. It is proof again that the spirit of human helpfulness is still abroad in the world."

Msgr. M. W. Helmann, president of the Council of Social Agencies, provided another illustration of the community-wide character of the campaign with his announcement to Catholics present that special dispensation had been granted by the bishop of the diocese to allow the eating of meat on Friday. Msgr. Helmann also gave the invocation.

After the meeting, solicitors manuals and subscription cards were handed to the workers by colonels and captains of the campaign. Workers will give accounts of their progress at daily "report luncheons" next week. O. H. Bimson led the group in singing "God Bless America," to open the meeting.

Ashmore Asserts Farm Quotas Unbalanced

... Fears Compulsion

OMAHA, Oct. 4—(AP)—Former State Senator Hugh Ashmore of Palisade complained today that county defense food production goals now being set up are inconsistent.

Ashmore reported to newspapermen here that he tried to sit in on a district AAA meeting at York but was told it was only for department of agriculture defense board and government agency representatives.

Citing figures which he charged showed inconsistent variations between county goals, Ashmore said "they'll have to talk pretty fast" to explain them.

"The thing I want to know," he said, "is if these goals are going to become compulsory x x x whether one of these days they're going to tell every farmer he must keep just so many cattle and so many hogs and so many chickens and so many sheep."

Sugar Beet Harvest Ruling Will Affect State Only Slightly

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Oct. 4—(AP)—J. R. Mason, Great Western Sugar company district manager, estimated today a department of agriculture ruling permitting sugar beet growers to harvest surplus acres without penalty would add about 300 to 350 North Platte valley acres to the 1941 crop.

Of the 2,000 growers in the valley, he said only 300 have surplus acreage so the total is rather small compared with the 32,400 acres to be harvested beginning next week.

Kumpf Hurt In Tank Accident

... Leg Is Mangled

(Special to The Star.)

SHELBY, Neb., Oct. 4—Lt. Willard O. Kumpf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Kumpf of Shelby, is in a critical condition at Camp Polk near Leesville, La., as the result of a freak tank accident during army maneuvers Thursday, according to work received here.

Information from Lt. Kumpf's commanding officer said the tank struck a tree branch and that a limb rammed into the machine and mangled one of the youth's legs.

Lt. Kumpf, 22, was graduated last June from the University of Nebraska college of business administration and was immediately called into active duty with an armored division at Ft. Sill, Okla.

Two Infants Lost In Plane Mishap

... In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 4—(AP)—The body of one child was recovered today from waters near here where a Pan-American airplane water-looper at the end of its flight from Miami.

Mrs. Angelina Russo and her three children, who boarded the plane at Port au Prince, Haiti, were among the 27 passengers and crew members aboard.

She and one child were taken from the plane last night with all other ocupants. The third child still is missing.

The plane's nose broke off and it flooded quickly. Navy tugs got the plane from the water onto a lighter during the night. Its wings snapped off during the salvage operation.

'SUPPORT CHEST DRIVE' IS PLEA

... Of F.D.R., Willkie

(By the Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie joined today in an appeal to Americans to support the annual community chest drives. Both emphasized national defense requirements.

The chief executive, broadcasting from the capital last night, said the well-being of the civilian population must be built up because "adequate national defense definitely needs it."

"In a great world threat to our future, we must, for ourselves and our country, preserve and make secure our values and the strength of our institutions," the president said.

Willkie, the 1940 republican presidential nominee, said in his broadcast from New York that Americans had a "profound faith in freedom."

"By giving to those who have too little," he said, "you will be defending America, just as surely as if you were engaged in the manufacture of armaments."

Wahoo Stages Colorful Show

... Pan-American Way

WAHOO, Neb., Oct. 4—(AP)—A Pan-American festival, first of its kind in Nebraska, splashed Wahoo streets with color Friday as costumed men, women and children paraded and participated in a good-neighbor program.

Principal speaker was Clarence Roberts, Oklahoma City farm editor recently returned from a South American trip, who said he hoped the Pan-American nations would become stronger individually and better united.

Mrs. Charles Prokop, Wahoo, won best costume honors among the women and Ole F. Anderson's was the best men's costume. Each won $5 worth of defense savings stamps.

Spiritual Or Belly, It's A Turning Point

THAT new crucial battle in the second World war which broke from out of thin air, suddenly and surprisingly, may decide the issue. A commentator referring to it as the battle within, spoke of it as the struggle between ruthless Nazi ideology and the decent qualities of the human spirit. Naturally the rebellion which flared in much of the territory occupied by Hitler through conquest will be interpreted both on the basis of fact, and of wishful thinking. That rebellion in occupied lands may represent the reappearance of the spirit of people who value their liberties, and, who as the commentary said, believe in the decent things of life as opposed to the brutal principle of force. And then again its chief inspiration may be nothing more than hunger—a gnawing hunger that fills the bellies of men with torment. Probably it represents a little of both.

Of First Magnitude

YET what has happened is more significant, if not more important from a military sense, than any victory that has been achieved since the beginning of the war. The ice of inaction, despair, and collapse, which held the peoples of these conquered countries has been broken, and to that extent they themselves have struck the chains from their wrists and their hands. The will to decide their own destiny is there. The spirit to fight so they may live within the dignity of man has reappeared. There is a second rising within much of the continent of Europe, which until these conquered peoples turn upon their oppressors, seemed dead.

Of Biblical Prophecy

ONLY the other day a very fine, earnest man in Lincoln said to the writer this great struggle in the world was running amazingly in line with biblical prophecy. So many people of deeply religious nature have reiterated that time and time again. It is not surprising they should return to their faith. That old, ancient truth that 'as a man sows, so shall he reap' has been fulfilled in the large as well as the little details of life. In distress there always is the solace that a world which seems so cruel and so indecent at times through some mysterious force and power seems to right itself. It may pay heavily for its mistakes and sacrifice with blood and treasure but it rights itself.

Weapons and Ammunition

WE SAID these developments of recent days which gave Hitler a grave problem of policing all of those countries which earlier he had crushed was of military importance. In the sense that never from now on, if at any time he had the notion his victims would submit quietly and peacefully, or come to that view which will make them willing partners of his, it is gone now. To all of the anxiety and burdens of conducting successfully fresh new battles against enemies not yet beaten, is added the torment of not knowing just what next to expect within those nations supposedly crushed. Yet all of the advantage rests with Hitler. He has the rifles and the ammunition. He has the weapons to put down with great brutality any uprising in any area over which the swastika flies.

Absence of Leadership

IN THE final run there is still one other advantage more important than guns and ammunition. It is the matter of leadership. Under the blanket of censorship which has lengthened the darkness of night to 24 hours in all of these occupied countries, there is no knowledge of what leadership remains in those rebelling nations to give solid form to the crystallized emotions that the hour has arrived once again to strike a blow for freedom from the tyranny of Axis domination.

France As An Example

OF the conquered nations, France, perhaps, provides the best example. There is a struggle within a struggle, or better a score of struggles. In the former gay Parisian capital at break of day Friday six of the synagogs of Paris were bombed, and when the dust and smoke of heavy explosions cleared away, only the bare brick walls were standing. It was an outbreak against the Jew. The Rightists of France had taken over. There is in France, and there has been for years a sharp division between the right and the left. To what extent it contributed to the easy downfall of France is not of such vital importance as the degree to which it may interfere in enabling France to unite solidiy in revolt, and to rise as one man at the proper day to reclaim itself from Hitler.

One Early Measure

THERE are secrets which might shed so much light upon this outbreak of wrath among the subjugated peoples. Early in the war, long before France fell, the French government called upon every citizen of France in civilian life to surrender his arms or his weapons. French veterans, who lived through those four hellish years of the first World war, turned in their highly-prized rifles and automatic pistols and received in exchange a receipt from the French government which guaranteed these Frenchmen the return of their weapons at the conclusion of the war. What became of this arsenal? Was it surrendered by Petain to Hitler, along with all other French military equipment, when swallowing his bitter cup, Petain sought and secured an armistice.

With Clubs and Fists

NO REBELLING people could hope to get far against Hitler by relying solely upon fists, clubs, or any other article of defense, with occupational forces armed to the teeth. But the embattled Greeks, crushed in battle, fled to the mountains—and, as good fighting men—fighting men whose mettle compares with the best in the world—the supposition is they took with them all of the weapons and supplies they could salvage for use on that day when the spirit of ancient Greece made its reappearance. There were the fierce Serb tribesmen—again magnificent fighting men—inured to hardship, unconquerable in spirit, traditionally fierce and war-like—and those remnants of the Serbian army able to extricate themselves took refuge in the scarred mountain fastnesses of their own land.

What of the Leaders?

YET the spirit is not sufficient in itself. There must be leaders. There must be in all of these subjugated countries a new, strong and sturdy son of freedom, embodying that quenchless valor of Joan of Arc to head the armies returning to battle and to mobilize the millions eagerly waiting for the call to arms.

Back to Old Tools

THERE has been a conspicuous development in the past fortnight which tells its own story. Hitler and the Nazi regime for some reason have been playing more upon racial hatreds. Fresh restrictions have been placed upon the Jew in Germany. The familiar tools employed in the beginning to erect the Nazi structure have been more in evidence since these outbreaks began than in a period of more than a year of war. The facts are significant in their ominous warning. It has been Hitler's strategy, and a successful strategy, to add to the weight of his arm the sharp divisions created among people by appeal to racial intolerance.

Apostle of Peace

WHEN Hitler returned to Berlin Friday for his first public address in nearly five weeks there was less from his lips bn the 'new world order' he would create, and more, much more, directed to those opposing the Nazi regime. Obviously it was for his own people, and for sections of Europe under German rule. Of such seeming inconsequence as it is, yet it was very revealing. The disarrangement of his time-table by Russia wiped out the shining lustre of previous military achievement. He was in a world surrounded by enemies. Germany's existence is threatened. She was only a few steps removed from the fate of a back-to-the-wall stand. That's a far cry from the thundering cries of triumph a few months back.

PAMPHLET TELLS ABOUT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

"Doctor, What Can I Do?—Facts About Infantile Paralysis" is the name of a pamphlet which contains all the facts of modern medicine about infantile paralysis. It is issued by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, 120 Broadway, New York, and a copy will be sent free to anyone on application.

The pamphlet describes the symptoms and forms of onset, such things as the proper use of the iron lung, the means by which it is spread from person to person, treatment and availability of care.

Under the head of "Prevention" the Foundation has this advice to offer:

"Since there is no specific means of warding off this disease, such as medical science has provided for diphtheria, typhoid fever, smallpox and many of the other contagious illnesses, prevention for the present depends on avoidance of exposure. During an epidemic many carriers and persons with the mild undiagnosable forms of poliomyelitis infection unintentionally and unknowingly spread the virus.

"See that children — and all other members of the household—take nothing into their mouths that could have been soiled by the discharges from the bodies of others.

Exposure to Crowds

"A hard and fast rule can not be made against swimming.

"Swimming itself is not thought to be harmful, but if the water iscontaminated, a definite danger is introduced. If the child meets new people and is exposed to new crowds, swimming may be a menace. Little is gained if a community closes the schools and swimming places and allows the children to mingle with people on the streets, in stores and other meeting places.

"These are problems that must be considered by the health and medical authorities of each community in the time of danger. The federal government, each state, every large city and many of the counties maintain departments of health staffed with persons competent to advise in such matters.

"A conference of the leading health and medical authorities usually leads to the formulation of suggestions designed for a particular community. Parents should study these suggestions with great care and follow them exactly, thereby doing their best to protect themselves and their children, and also serving the rest of the community in which they live."

QUESTION: "Please tell me if the new drug sulfanilamide may be obtained at any drug store, and are the directions on the package and can it be used without a physician's prescription?"

ANSWER: Sulfanilamide causes many disagreeable symptoms, and certainly should never be used except under a doctor's orders.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Chatterer's Dismay

Let nothing that may come your way
Cause but a moment's real dismay.
— Old Mother Nature.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was asleep in an old nest of Mrs. Bluebird's in a hole in a post of a fence on the Green Meadows. He hadn't intended to go to sleep. He had been carried way over to the dear Old Briar-patch on a wholly unexpected flood that had come at a season when floods are not supposed to be. On his way back to the Green Forest when the water had gone down he had climbed this post for a look around, had found the hole in the post and had curled up in it for a few minutes of rest. He had had no intention of going to sleep.

But Chatterer had not slept much the night before. This was really the first place in which he had felt really safe since he was swept away. Do you wonder that he dropped off to sleep at once? He slept and slept. He was awakened by a sound directly overhead. When he opened his eyes he couldn't at first think where he was. Then he remembered. He started to poke his head out for a look around, but withdrew it hurriedly. He had heard that sound overhead again. There was some one on the roof of his house. That is to stay, some one was on the top of that post. Who could it be?

He was frightened, yet not frightened. He felt quite safe in that hole in the post, but he was afraid to go out and he did so want to continue on his way to the Green Forest. Whoever was sitting on that post had claws, big claws. He knew by the sound they made. It might be Blacky the Crow who was there. But soon he knew it wasn't, for faintly he heard Blacky's harsh "Caw, caw," far in the distance.

After a long time he knew by certain sounds that whoever had been sitting on that post had left it. At once he poked his head out for a look. He was just in time to see Redtail the Hawk alight on another post of the fence just a little way beyond. It was already late in the afternoon. It wouldn't be long until the Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills. Chatterer doesn't like to be out after dark. He still had a long way to go and he was anxious to get home to the Green Forest, but he didn't dare start with that big feathered hunter in the neighborhood. Probably he was watching for Mice, but he would be just as well pleased with a Squirrel, perhaps a little more so.

"What is he hanging around here for? Why doesn't he go and give a fellow a chance? One would think he knows I am here and is waiting for me, but he doesn't. He can't," muttered Chatterer. He longed to climb up on that post and tell Redtail just what was what as he would have done from a tree in the Green Forest. He didn't. He was too wise to do anything as foolish as that.

Redtail sat and sat and sat

Redtail sat and sat and sat. At last he spread his big wings and rose high in the air. There he circled about lazily. Chatterer watched him impatiently. Would he never go on his way? At last he wasn't much more than a speck in the distance. Chatterer came out and climbed to the top of the post. Redtail disappeared. Chatterer prepared to start on. Then he saw the Black Shadows creeping out from the Purple Hills. Already they were entering the Green Forest. By the time Chatterer could get there, though he ran his fatest every step of the way, darkness would have reached the Green Forest. He thought of Hooty the Owl who hunts in the dusk and his heart sank.

"I will stay right here," he decided. "I'll spend the night here and get an early start in the morning."

"Who Whoo?" came a far-away voice from the Green Forest. It was faint but there was no mistaking it. It was the voice of Hooty.

"Me," muttered Chatterer, and shivered just a wee bit. The sound of that voice always makes him shiver just a bit as it does many other of the little people in fur and feathers. Chatterer went back inside that post. Long after the coming of the Black Shadows he heard some one overhead. Then with startling suddenness Hooty's hunting call rang out. Hooty was sitting on that very post. Do you wonder that Chatterer was filled with dismay even though he was safe for the night?

PEACE ENDURING

Never in all the history known
Has Might remained upon the throne.
Never has Evil grown so strong
As to establish what is wrong.
Never have hatred, lust or greed
Managed completely to succeed.

Justice has suffered many a blow,
Honor to take up arms is slow,
Truth is inclined too long to wait,
Plans for its own defense too late,
But however so strong it grows
Never full victory Evil knows.

Never unless its cause be right
Will peace established be by Might.
Men how to force because they must
But never will they think it just,
And they will, silent, wait the hour
When they can fight with greater power.

Never the hates of warfare cease,
Truth only holds the key to peace.
Force, soon or late in nature's course,
Falls broken by a greater force.
Hate's overthrow complete is sure
For only Right can long endure.

CALLING ALL DOGS!

By Albert Payson Terhune

QUEER "JUSTICE"

Here is something which could not have happened in this country. I know mighty little about law, but I know that much. The scene of this true story is laid in Vienna. The time was three or four years ago.

A burglar broke into a house, one midnight. Before he could lay hands on any loot, the family housedog was at his throat. The burglar strove in vain to fend off the avenging brute. The dog gave a fine account of himself, as guardian of the home. He ripped and tore at the thief, until members of the family dragged him away from his victim by force.

By that time the robber was glad enough to fall into the hands of the poilce, if only he could be spared further injury from the terrible dog.

When the burglar got out of prison, he brought suit for heavy damages against the dog's owner. Not only that, but the Austrian courts granted him the damages. This because of a local law to the effect that "all dangerous dogs must be muzzled." The dog had not been muzzled. And there was no doubt he was dangerous—at least, to thieves.

Amazing Justice!

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 11.
OVER-NIGHT GUEST.

Freda was smiling, but there was a note in her voice that was far from laughter. For the first time Pam felt she could believe; that Freda was sincere with her. Then Freda was talking again:

"You see I wasn't as fried as I seemed when you came out and saw me in your flower beds."

"Fried?" Pam was puzzled. The vernacular of drinking was foreign language to her.

"Yes, sweet child, friend. Saturated. Spiffed. Or just plain intoxicated, if you'd rather. Only I wasn't, you see. I hadn't been drinking at all, but it suited me to have the handsome Jerry think I was helpless."

Freda was leaning forward a little and talking with sudden earnestness. "I heard everything, Pam. Just how sweet you were to me. I wouldn't have been that way to you. I want you to know that. It's only fair. I couldn't have been as big and fine as you've been. I fight for what I want in all the small ways a woman knows. I've never wanted anything as you want Jerry. If I had, I'd have been poisonous. I'd never have insisted that you be brought into my house, had things been reversed. I'm not made of that kind of stuff. And I'm surprising myself in wanting you to have Jerry."

"But that was nothing," Pam said quietly. "Anyone would have done what I did."

"That's what you think. Really it was heroic, Pam. Not one girl in my crowd would have done that. Not one. From now on I'm with you, Pam!"

"Thanks," Pam said in a very small voice. She was still hurt and stunned by the events and revelations of the night. "You will stay here?" she asked. "It's too late for you to go out alone."

"Yes, I will," Freda said with the quick decision of her sort. "Mother would scalp me if I came in at this hour. So show me a bed. I'll phone the hotel in the morning to tell her I've stayed with friends."

Pam took her upstairs to a room that was a revelation of simple beauty. There was an old teakwood bed that had once been part of a ship that had sailed the early seas. There was a little round table that had been made to take a ship's roll. There were old and rare bits of bric-a-brac.

Freda fell asleep almost as soon as Pam's soft footfalls left her room. Not Pam, however. She stood at her window, loking out into the star-swept early morning sky. The sweet heavy scent of the blooms of the orchid tree lay on the soft air. There were the low, vague sounds of tropic dawn—palm trees rustling, the sharp crack of the fruit of the sandbox tree exploding.

Pam turned finally to her own bed with its quaint patchwork quilt. She was more tired than she had realized. Sleep closed her eyes to the slowly waking world just as a shower dropped suddenly from the sky. One of those strangely tropical things—rain that comes swiftly and without warning from a suddenly clouding sky, and then stops just as quickly, leaving in its wake an incomparable freshness of atmosphere that is weighted with the pleasant scents of earth and flowers.

There was only a note in Freda's room when Pam went there. Pam read the large, flamboyant writing so characteristic of the girl:

"Thanks for everything. I still mean what I said last night."

Strange Music.

Duval Street in Key West runs east and west, straight across the island. Near the west end, not far from the red brick building that houses the bank and not far from the dock where vessels from foreign ports tie up, is a hall that is rented upon occasion for band practice.

Not far from the hall, across a vacant lot, is an empty house sagging under the weight of a vine that blooms with an odorless brown flower that is dry and, to all appearances, lifeless even as its buds unfurls. It has a strange, luring sort of beauty that is changeless even after the dust of years has coated it. "Rose of Hell," they call it in Key West. Or by the less gusty souls, it is named "Wood Rose."

Two middle-aged tourists had stopped to admire the strange flower. The woman turned suddenly, her plain face lifted as if listening to some celestial strain.

"Tom! That music! And someone singing! I've never heard anything like it."

They stood entranced, the roses that never bear any fragrance, forgotten.

Edmund Antoine had arisen early and strolled to the docks. He had been watching the water, mysterious opal under a sky that was momentarily crowded with vagrant clouds; then turquoise and emerald, as the clouds scuttled away before the march of a warm, triumphant sun.

Antoine turned finally and walked along Duval Street. Just opposite the two tourists he stopped, held to the spot by a harmony of sound issuing from the hall. Two voices were blending in a sort of melodic unity that was more than singing together.

Antoine, with his sensitive ear trained to catch every nuance, every imperfection of measure and beat, had the look of a man who has just made an important discovery. He turned suddenly and went into the hall, realizing only then that the girl's voice was familiar.

In the hall Lenore stood close to Vincenzo Barolli, her singing lips uplifted slightly to his. His voice, as he looked down at her, poured from his throat like sunlit water flowing over a bed of velvety moss. Antoine was struck by something in their voices and their faces. He remembered seeing Barolli at the window while Lenore sang at his party at Pena's sang with that odd brightness in her eyes that could have been tears.

Many things came back to him as he watched and listened. Barolli on the beach in casual conversation with Lenore. Barolli and Lenore at that little stand at the other end of Duval Street, where they sold that peculiarly tropic delicacy, sour-op ice cream; talking interestedly over two dishes of the sweet with its strange, half sour, musky flavor. Lenore and Baroli sitting close on the steps of the cabana at Rest Beach where a white oleander bush grew out of the sand.

Barolli glanced at Antoine then and took up the baton, giving the boys the down beat, going through the number again without the voices. It was Barolli's orchestra, then. Lenore walked toward Antoine.

"You've caught me, Eddie," she said.

"Doing a very creditable job," was his answer in a preoccupied tone. Lenore sensed that he wanted to give Barolli and his music undivided attention, and said nothing more.

A New Lenore.

As he crashed into a finale that softened gradually until it was only a whisper, Barolli turned to Antoine and held out the baton.

"My name is Barolli," he said. "Give my boys a whirl. See how they follow." It was evident he was proud of his collection of young musicians, their dark, sensitive countenances testifying visibly of their Cuban heritage. There was an eagerness in their faces as they turned to Antoine.

"And this is Edmund Antoine, Vin," Lenore said. "He's maestro at the hotel."

"Yes, I know," returned Barolli.

"You've evidently done some fine selecting and training here, Barolli," Antoine said. "I didn't suppose the island would produce this sort of stuff."

"Oh, yes. They're born musicians. They are so grateful for a chance to let it out."

"They should have plenty of chance." Antoine turned then to the musicians. He looked them over calmly, seemed to be taking stock of them. The music on the racks was the old number Fritzi Scheff made famous: "Kiss Me Again." Antoine gave the boys a quick down beat.

Lenore and Vincent took up the words. Their voices soared, died to a tender pianissimo, and soared again. People passing on the street stopped to listen.

Barolli's smile, when he turned to Antoine as they finished, covered a riotous welling of emotion. He had been singing beside beautiful Lenore Winthrope, his voice blending with hers, and his boys had played as they never had before. It was almost too much for one day.

"You do with them what I never can," he said.

"No" Antoine was quick to give credit where it was due—"all you need is a little time. Come around some morning. I'd like to have a talk with you. I've got to push along now. We play for lunch today.

"Edmund, I'm going your way. Let me drive you," Lenore offered quickly. And then, as Antoine suspected, after they had settled in Lenore's car, Lenore wanted to talk.

"Eddie, you won't say anything to Adele, will you? I mean about my being there with Vin? She and Father would just die if they knew. Of course it's not serious, I mean with Vin. It's just my art, my singing. And Gervase is coming down with Father any time now. I just don't want anything unpleasant. You see they wouldn't understand."

"But I understand, Lenore," Antoine said seriously, wishing to set her fears at rest. "I won't mention anything to your mother or father or your handsome Count Gervase de Bellefort—though I hate to see you throw yourself away on that effete gentleman!" He laughed a little on the last. "You know Barolli really has got something."

"Oh, Eddie, do you think so, really?" Her eagerness was slightly surprising to Antoine.

When they reached Casa Marina Antoine dropped down on a bench for the few moments he still had left, and watched Lenore go into the hotel.

He wasn't so sure it was all just her art that took her to that barren hall to practice with Barolli. He had seen her face as she stood beside Barolli lifting her voice with his in song. Lenore hadn't realized how much was written there.

Morgenthau Unruffled As Plane Nearly Crashes

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., takes things right in stride—even a near crackup in an airplane.

Enroute to his Fishkill, N. Y., home in a coastguard airplane yesterday, Morgenthau calmly continued to read as the plane, plunging through a pea soup fog in an attempt to land at New Hackensack, N. Y., scraped tops of trees and then zoomed upward in a hasty fight for altitude.

At Philadelphia, where the plane finally landed, Morgenthau spoke words of praise for the pilot, Lieut. William Sinton, and then took a transport plane for New York and a week-end in the country.

Columbus Youth Is Satisfied With U.S.A. After Flying For England

... Finds Britons Prudent Fighters

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Oct. 4—(AP)—Leland D. Mattley, 21-year-old Columbus, Neb., pilot who fought with the Royal Canadian air force for 13 months, was headed for home today well satisfied to be back in the United States.

"I've had enough of it," he said. "I'd go today if Uncle Sam called me, but as long as I don't have to, I'm well satisfied."

"Since Russia got into it, the RAF has been blasting hard at the continent but the English are sensible people and they are not risking their lives if they think it isn't necessary," he said.

"Don't get me wrong—they can fight, all right, and will. In fact, they're about the toughest fighters that you will ever run across. But they don't like to die — the Germans have no thought of life, they believe it a great honor to die for their country," he said.

Mattley, who said his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Mattley, live at Columbus, told how he once had to bail out after trailing nazi planes across the English channel and running short of gasoline. He landed in a tree unhurt.

His only injury occurred when his machine gun jammed and exploded, breaking the back of his hand and forcing him to be hospitalized 35 days.

SILK SHORTAGE AFFECTS MAGICIANS

NEW YORK—(AP)—The nation's silk shortage is affecting the art of magic, according to Russell Swann, president of the Master Magicians of America. He says that magicians will be forced to eliminate all "silk tricks"—the favorite one being the illusion of pulling yards of gaily colored material from an empty hat or pocket as soon as their present stocks of silk cloth are exhausted.

The charge against the Queen of Holland doesn't matter. She was guilty of owning property the Nazis wished to steal.

British Haven't Enough To Eat

... U.S. Officials Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Reporting they were "actually hungry" after a month's stay in England, two high ranking agriculture department officials said today the British people need all the food that the United States possibly can send.

Paul H. Appleby, undersecretary of agriculture, remarked that he lost eight pounds on the restricted English diet, while R. M. Evans, agricultural adjustment administrator, returned here 10 pounds lighter.

Both went to England nearly two months ago at the invitation of the British government to get a close-up view of food supply, distribution and transportation problems.

Appleby said that "gobs and gobs of American food" now were reaching England under the British-aid program, but that the "facts are that the English people are not getting enough to eat."

"The English people are not complaining," he said. "They are 100 per cent confident that they will win the war but they are not talking about when that will be. All of their plans and speculations are based on a period of years. They plan now for 1944 as readily as 1942."

Shortage Of Wire Causes Broom Crisis

H. A. Rust, superintendent of the Lincoln broom works located at Union college, recently attended a special convention of the national broom manufacturers association in Chicago. Mr. Rust stated that a shortage of broom material caused by the national defense program necessitated the calling of the convention. Greatest shortage exists in broom wire, although other materials are lacking.

Between 9,000 and 10,000 farmers who raise broom corn will be unable to sell their products if the acute wire shortage is not relieved. A special petition was drawn up and sent to the government asking them to relieve the situation.

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Some hunters and a pack of hounds were chasing a fox from hither to yon. One hound spotted the fox beside a fence which ran east and west. The dog was in an open field 100 feet south of the fox. At the same instant the fox spotted the dog and simultaneously they broke into a run, the fox going east along the wall and the dog shifting his course to always head directly for the fox. If the dog traveled 30 feet per second and the fox 20 feet per second, how far did the fox get before he was caught?

Answer To Yesterday's Twizzler.

More Than Half Of Americans Gambled During Past Year

... New Survey Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP.

[Director, American Inst. Public Opinion]

Copyright, 1941

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 4—War or no war, the average American still has an itch to do a little betting—you might call it gambling—now and then.

That's the indication from a new survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion which shows that more than five Americans in every ten (54 per cent to be exact) say they have laid money on the betting line at least once in the past twelve months, or played for stakes in some game of chance.

And most of them freely admit they've lost more than they've won.

With an adult population of somewhat more than 80,000,000 men and women, the survey indicates that about 43,000,000 of them have succumbed to the betting or gambling temptation at least once in a year's time.

Legislators occasionally suggest that some way should be found to harness the gambling instinct for the benefit of state or federal treasuries. And the indications are that the public itself would endorse government lotteries toward such purposes as old age pensions and other causes, Institute surveys have shown.

One of the most interesting facts brought out in the present survey is that the commonest forms of chance-taking are not betting on the horses, playing the "numbers" game, taking a spin at roulette or any of the more garish types of money-losing, but rather buying tickets in church-conducted lotteries and raffles, playing cards for money at the neighbor's house, or slipping a nickel or a dime into a nearby pinball or slot-machine.

Brief synopsis of all American speeches and plans concerning aid to Democracy: "Soon."

Evidently Providence protects America. There is always somebody to hold the enemy while we make up our minds.

Stocks, After A Steady Start, Close Irregular

Many Issues Are Unchanged

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Skies cleared for the world series today but in the stock market, with the exception of brightening rails and specialties, clouds generally continued to obscure the direction.

The list exhibited fairly steady tendencies at the start. Dealings, active for a while, slowed. Liveliness of a number of low-priced issues again helped the aggregate and transfers for the two hours were around 250,000 shares.

While there were scattered gainers of a point or so at the close, with several favorites edging into new high ground for the year, minor variations were the rule. Numerous stocks were unchanged and minus signs were plentiful when the final gong sounded.

As in the past week or so speculative contingents showed considerable immunity to the war news. Taxes and growing governmental restrictions, however, remained as buying handicaps, brokers said.

Transportation stocks, which have been lagging for a long time and which initiated a modest come-back Friday, apparently drew further support on wishful-thinking concerning settlement of the wage controversy with a smaller increase than many had looked for. Climbing traffic and net income for the principal roads helped the group to recoup a portion of its popularity.

Steels were handicapped by word supplies of scrap were dwindling to serious proportions and that the shortage might force some mills to curtail operations before the end of October. Next week's ingot production was expected to show only a negligible deviation from recent rates.

International mercantile Marine was a speedy mover for a while on announcement the reconstruction finance Corp. had authorized a loan of $11,469,000 to this concern for retirement of its 6 per cent bonds which matured Oct. 1. The bonds ran up about 9 points to around par.

Better share performers included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Nickel Plate preferred, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Phelps Dodge, Texas Corp., J. C. Penney and Glenn Martin.

Backward were Chrysler, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck Youngstown Sheet and American Can.

Bonds improved and commodities were a trifle uneven.

Heyden Chemical weakened in the curb but support was accorded Electric Bond & Share, Creole Petroleum, American Gas, American Book and N. J. Zinc.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—COTTON—Spot house transactions dominated the futures market today as prices preserved their higher tendencies.

A good demand from mill interests, New Orleans and Wall Street was motivated by the favorable interpretation given the sliding scale ceilings on cotton carded yarns and reports of unfavorable weather in the south.

Increased hedge selling on the advance caused only momentary setbacks.

Futures closed 14-25 higher. Close: Oct. 17.12N; Dec. 17.34; Jan. 17.40N; March 62; May 78; July 17.94.

Sales of three-eighths and one-quarter blood bright fleeces were reported in the range 47@51 cents, in the grease, but sales were mostly at 48@50 cents.

Wheat And Corn Lower At Finish

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Another break in soybean prices, lost as much as 3 cents a bushel in early dealings, caused selling of grains today but market quotations later recovered most of the losses.

Wheat, corn and oats declines were held to about a cent and later prices recovered due partly to continued wet weather over much of the grain belt. While building up moisture reserves in most areas, rains were reported interfering with harvest and movement of late spring wheat in the domestic northwest and Caanda. Rain also was unwanted in the corn and soybean belt, with combing of beans delayed.

The early break in bean prices to the lowest level in about a month was due partly to lower meal and oil quotations.

Wheat closed ⅛@⅜c lower than yesterday, December $1.20⅞@1.21, May $1.26 @1.25⅞; corn ⅛@⅜c down, December 80½@⅝c, May 85⅝@¾c; oats unchanged to ¼c off, soybeans ¾@1¼c lower; rye ¼c off.

Renewed selling of soybeans, prices of which in recent weeks have been retreating from the record-breaking peaks that were reached on September 12, continued to disturb the entire grain market today.

Beans fell almost 3 cents at times following yesterday's net losses of 5¾ to 7¼ cents. At around $1.67 a bushel for delivery this month, soybean futures showed losses of 27 cents from the peaks reached in September. Wheat and corn prices were off about a cent and oats and rye lost fractions.

Selling was in the face of unsettled weather over much of the belt which some traders thought might interfere with bean harvest, which should be expanding daily at this time of year. Brokers blamed most of the liquidating orders, however, on dealers hastening to accept profits or eliminate holdings due to expectations of increased supplies as soon as harvesting gets in full swing. They said many traders also have been influenced by a belief that bean prices have been too high in relation to oil and meal and values of other competitive products. Recent weakness of oil and meal as well as lard and cottonseed oil have been bearish factors.

Some of the selling of beans also was attributed to hedging against the new crop movement. Government officials in Illinois, major producing state, estimate 69 per cent of the Illinois crop will be sold at harvest time. Much of the crop is understood to have been sold to processors in advance and there were reports that industries are paying relatively higher prices than Chicago dealers in some areas.

There was further profit taking and hedging in wheat. Some of this was offset by purchases based on the fact that receipts at most terminal have fallen off recently. Also the government report showing that as of September 27 farmers had placed 224,475,847 bushels of 1941 grain under loan attracted attention. This was an increase of 18,077,000 bushels for the week ending that date. Traders pointed out that the total under loan already is within about 50,000,000 of the amount of 1940 grain sealed up to December 31 last year.

Althought the government was reported selling small quantities of 1940 wheat which was defaulted to it, most of this grain has been put into export for Mexico. However, the fact that sales were being made caused many traders to be cautious on the buying side.

Poor shipping demand for corn and capacity of storage space for tha tas well as other grains continued to depress prices.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—International Mercantile Marine 6s, which were due Oct. 1, stole the show in today's bond market, jumping more than 9 points at the opening and holding the gain in relatively heavy volume during the short session.

The spark which set the shipping company loan skyrocketing was word the reconstruction Finance Corp., had authorized a loan of $11,469,000 to retire the bonds at par.

The rest of the list edged higher, with fractional gains in the majority.

U. S. governments lost from 1-32 to 3-32 of a point in light over-the-counter trading, continuing the trend set after reports the government next week would seek $1,000,000,000 or more to meet armament costs.

New York Central 3¾s and New England Railroad 4s stood out in the list of carriers with respectable gains. Fractionally higher were Missouri-Kansas-Texas "A" 5s of '62, Southern Railway 4s, Nickel Plate 4½s, St. Paul 5s and Baltimore & Ohio Stamped Convertibles.

The few losers in late trading included International Hydro-Electric 6s, American Telephone 3s and Cuba Northern Railways 5½s.

Light trading in foreign issues put SAO Paulo Stamped 7s of '40 ahad better than a point and advanced Canadian, Danish and Cuban loans. Losers included Norway 6s and Tokyo Electric Light 6s.

Chicago Livestock

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Increased receipts and weak dressed pork prices, which contributed to a downturn of hog quotations this week, remained as bearish factors today, but, because of limited trade, the market was on a steady basis.

The quotable hog top held at $11.35, same as yesterday.

Packers here and at other principal markets received slightly larger receipts this week and Chicago dressed pork wholesale prices were lower. Some cured items showed losses of 2 to 3 cents a pound and fresh loins were off ½ cent in some cases. Dressed beef was uneven, some weights showing losses of a cent and others gains of ½ cents.

Traders attributed some of the hog weakness to reduced government purchases of lard, although pork buying schedules were maintained. The government bought 13,285,028 pounds of canned pork, 4,401,000 cured pork and 5,122,400 lard.

U. S. AROUSED BY TANKER SINKING

ing everything in its power to provide supplies Britain needs.

Our aid-to-Britain policy, he declared, is materially affected every time a submarine sends a ship carrying American supplies to the bottom.

If we say, Hull continued, that we can do nothing because some vessels which are torpedoed are under neutral flags, our aid to Britain would drop to a minimum.

Didn't Read Hitler Speech.

His statement came as the result of questions at his press conference about a statement by the Standard Oil company that the I. C. White was under Panamanian registry but had been transferred to the British and was under British orders at the time it was torpedoed and sunk.

The secretary, in reply to questions, said that he had not read Adolf Hitler's latest seepch as he assumed there was nothing unusual in it and could not undertake to follow that type of speech-making in these times of world crisis.

The 7,052-ton I. C. White was the eighth American-owned merchantman sunk since the start of the war. It was enroute from Curacao to South Africa, in command of William Mello, of Everett, Mass.

Rescue ships reported to land them at Rio De Janeiro Tuesday

The American freighter West Nilus reported yesterday that she had picked up 18 survivors from a lifeboat 450 miles off Recife, Brazil. Today the American freighter Delnorte informed the United States consulate at Rio that she had picked up 16 more men at a point about 30 miles off Maceio, Brazil.

All Americans

Standard Oil said it understood all members of the crew were Americans.

Although the I. C. White was owned by a subsidiary of Standard Oil, early in the war it was transferred to Panamanian registry. The ship later was placed at the disposal of Great Britain, under the lend-lease program, and at the time of the sinking was operating under British orders.

Despite the neutrality law which bars Americans from sailing on ships of belligerents and from sailing into combat zones, United States crewmen were allowed to work on the I. C. White since it was registered in Panama and was traveling outside the combat zones proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

Until the survivors could be interviewed, there was no certain knowledge whether the torpedo was loosed by a submarine or surface raider, or even the exact location of the attack. If the ship went down near where the survivors were picked up, it would be slightly west of the spot where the American flag freighter Robin Moor was torpedoed May 21. If so, the attack would be the nearest to American shores yet reported.

People of U.S. Need Closer Understanding Of South America

. . . Says Miss Allen

Miss Mabelle Allen, teacher in the Lincoln schools, addressed the Women's Educational club at a noon luncheon in the Cornhusker hotel Saturday, displaying colored movies of her trip to Argentina and Brazil.

Miss Allen told the teachers that the people of the United States needed a closer understanding of the traditions and the customs of the South American countries in order to better relations.

Miss Waide President.

A business session preceded the luncheon and the following officers were elected: Mildred Waide, Lincoln, president; Bessey Fisher, Lincoln, secretary, and Mrs. Evelyn Borrows, treasurer.

The candidacies of Mrs. Martha Green of Aurora and Miss Mary Nihill of Seward for president and executive board member of the first district of the Nebraska State Teachers association, were announced.

"Easier Than Driving Car," Lincoln Doctor Says After First Solo Flight

Dr. A. L. Smith was the aviator. He has been flying for about two weeks, and enthusiasm is scarcely the word to describe the feeling about his new accomplishment.

"I've flown for years," Dr. Smith explained. "It is the only way to travel with an economy of time. I've flown to Panama, Jamaica, Cuba, New York and San Francisco. In Europe I flew to London, Paris and Vienna. Recently my reservations for a plane trip to Mexico City were cancelled within two days of when I had to be there. That long, hard trip by car gave me an idea. So I went out to Eddie Lyons, chief instructor at the Lincoln flying field, and what had seemed fairly difficult I learned was merely a matter of balance. You just let a plane alone, it can almost fly itself."

The initial law of the air, Dr. Smith asserted, is one of safety. The element of danger is minimized by always observing every precaution, he continued, and as the student's familiarity with the plane grows, confidence building lessons remove the last vestige of fear.

"Why it's easier than driving a car," Dr. Smith asserted, "and doesn't take any longer to learn how to do it. Years ago when I was in the army during the Spanish-American war there were no such things as planes. With our army nowadays, these new planes provide not only a new side to warfare, but they also open a thrilling achievement to the young men that pilot them."

REDS LAUNCH BIG COUNTER ATTACKS

vital to control of the Black sea.

These sources acknowledged that farther north, in the area immediately east of captured Kiev, organized Russian resistance had ended, but said farther east red army resistance continued "stubborn and effective."

There was little change around Odessa in the south, Leningrad in the north or in the central sector, it was said, and the general straightening of the lines eliminates danger of Russian forces being encircled.

Berlin reports said the Germans seemed to be turning their mightiest pressure upon the Donets and the manufacturing city of Kharkov. They added that the German assaults were colliding with counter-attacking Russian tanks and armored trains.

The Russians reported there was fighting along the entire front and said the Germans were suffering heavy material losses in the south.

Moscow said marine parachutists were harassing the besiegers of Odessa, on the Black sea, joining forces with the guerillas of that district.

The Russian early-morning communique also told of the sinking of a German submarine by red warships in northern waters.

The British said their warplanes struck at docks at Rotterdam, Antwerp and Dunkerque during the night while Hurricane fighters strafed German airdromes in occupied France. German aerial activity over Britain was light.

The Japanese, meanwhile, began grand maneuvers in French Indo-China, with sufficient troops, it was reported, for a full dress campaign. Just how many men were involved was not revealed by the censor.

Many observers in Saigon, French Indo-China, expressed belief the anticipated zero hour for southern Asia had come. With Saigon under control, the Japanese have a good jumping-off place for a possible move against the huge British base at Singapore.

Fred Allen Gazes Upon Chick Gaylord In Post Picture

Tucked away on the left hand side of a photograph in "Eighty Hours for a Laugh," is "Chick" Gaylord, a young man with Fred Allen's eyes very much upon him.

For some years "Chick" has been in New York, a member of Peter Arno's staff as a contributor of and writer of smart sayings of Arno's own people. More recently he has taken on a pres agent job for a new hotel in the metropolis.

As far as C. P. Gaylord, "Chick's" father knows, his son is not a regular member of the Allen staff, but as he does a lot of free lance work, "Chick" may do some work for the twangy-voiced comedian.

More likely, according to Mr. Gaylord, J. Bryan III, a close friend of the Lincoln writer, probably took him along to an interview and the photographer came along at that moment. However, Allen seems to be waiting for one of "Chick's" best, smartest, sophisticated, and most acid cracks.

Georgia Desperadoes Captured After Chase

... Wild Ride

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct 4—(AP)—Forrest Turner and S. J. (Slim) Scarborough, long-sought fugitives, were captured today with a convict they liberated yesterday and a woman claiming to be Turner's wife.

The capture by federal and state officers occurred in south Georgia near Norman Park. There was no violence although Turner and Scarborough were heavily armed yesterday when they raided a state camp, freeing 43 convicts.

Capture climaxed the intensive hunt begun after the fugitives kidnaped a guard and state highway inspector in a roadside gun battle near Hamilton.

Wild Ride.

The four were stopped on a dirt road leading out of Ellenton after a wild ride of 70 to 90 miles an hour by the fugitives and two cars containing officers. The chase started at Norman Park, where officers accosted them.

Federal revenue officer J. O Stewart said Turner, who was driving the car, whipped around in Ellenton and tried to double back toward Norman Park, but one car of officers blocked the road.

Patrol Capt. J. J. Elliott said 34 of the convicts had been returned to the road project and searchers were close on the trail of the others.

Two Grand Lodge Officers Guests Of Lincoln Odd Fellows

Capital lodge No. 11, I. O. O. F., Friday night entertained as guests, William P. Bischof of Nebraska City, deputy grand master of the Nebraska jurisdiction, and Will A. Sapp of York, grand secretary, along with H. S. McKelvie of Harvard, past grand master. The lodge room was filled with members of all Lincoln lodges when the visitors spoke.

A regional meeting of the encampment branch Thursday night at York was attended by E. M. Mitchell, M. D. Thompson, D. C. Travis, Otto Jonscher, L. R. Fitch, and C. B. Collins, representing Lincoln. More than 100 were there from 22 Nebraska cities, and 13 candidates received the Patriarchal Golden Rule, and Royal Purple degrees. Supper was served after the meeting.

Ten members of Capital lodge will attend the grand lodge session at Grand Island on October 15 and 16.

U. S. PAPER SUPPLY LOWER THIS YEAR

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 4—(AP)—With national defense requiring 30 per cent of the paper production, Norbert A. McKenna, OPM official, said today that newspapers and other paper users in the United States would have 21½ million tons of paper in the next year to do "the job which previously only the profligate use of 25½ million tons could accomplish."

McKenna, chief of the pulp, paper, printing and publishing branch of the office of production management, said in an address prepared for a meeting of the Printers National association, that his office was dedicated to the maintenance of the 900,000 jobs and 60,000 proprietorships of the industries "depending on the efficient production and conservative use of paper so long as it is possible to do so consistent with meeting defense needs first."

GRAND COULEE SET TO GO INTO ACTION

GRAND COULEE, Wash., Oct. 4—(AP)—The world's biggest concrete dam and the world's largest generator will team up tonight to put the Grand Coulee project on the map as a steady producer of electricity.

Current—108,000 watts of it—will be flooded into the Bonneville-Grand Coulee lines from the big generator at 5:40 p. m.

The pulse of power will not be the first from Grand Coulee, but will mark the beginning of production of Grand Coulee power for general consumption. Last spring a little generator — a 10,000-watter—was tested and is furnishing power now to operate the dam.

JAPAN'S RICE CROP IS BELOW NORMAL

TOKYO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Japan's 1941 rice crop was estimated officially today at 59,130,000 koku, which is approximately 302,745,600 bushels, with unfavorable weather cutting production 12 per cent below the average of the past five years.

A report of the agriculture and forestry ministry blamed low temperatures, heavy rains and a lack of sunshine in critical periods between mid-June and late August.

Model Plane Heads For The Rose Bowl; Still Unreported

A little late, or early, for the Rose Bowl, Bill Parmenter's model plane took the western route Friday afternoon and hasn't been sighted since.

Bill, who lives at 703 South Thirty-fourth, and his friend, Jack Spalding of 601 South Twenty-ninth, were flying their rubber-powered, 44 inch wing-spread model at Thirty-third and J street when an up-current caught the plane and away it went.

The boys pursued the plane flying high, through O street traffic, north to the university campus and then west again. It came within 50 feet of the ground near the police station and then a capricious breeze sent it skimming across the Burlington tracks.

Having dragged their bicyles over the tracks the boys were losing ground and the model finally disappeared in a flight of birds over Oak creek lake, still headed for the wide west.

The plane which Bill has entered in contests in Fairbury, Marshalltown, Ia., and Chicago, bears his name, address and phone number and he has hopes of hearing from it soon.

Newspaper Boys Play Vital Role In Life

.. Gov. Griswold Believes

Governor Griswold paid tribute Saturday to newsboys in keeping with national newspaper week. His statement:

This is Newspaper week and while we are sounding the praises of our newspapers as vital factors in the preservation and growth of our American democracy, it is well that we pay tribute to the newspaper boys who are the salesman of our papers and upon whom, in metropolitan areas particularly, the widespread circulation of our papers is dependent. These boys, regardless of the elements and the hands of the clock, see that the paper gets to us.

More important, in my opinion, than the service which these young boys render to the public is the splendid training and disciplining which they are acquiring for themselves. Practitioners of free enterprise, they are gaining the fundamentals of business practice at first hand; fundamentals that have been so notable in individual American business successes and in the business accomplishments of our nation. It is said that those who serve best gain most and certainly this is true of the newspaper boys.

I am pleased to extend my best wishes to all newspaper boy in our state and to those who make these opportunities possible for them.

SALLY RAND WILL WAIT FOR COWBOY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4—(AP)—Sally Rand said today the fact that Thurkel Greenough and his first wife had not yet been divorced merely meant more waiting before marrying him.

"Naturally I'm disturbed somewhat," Sally said. "One does not commit bigamy. But a woman like myself who has waited some 30 years for the real thing to come along isn't going to hesitate about waiting a couple of weeks, a couple of months, or even a couple of years longer to realize her dream."

Miss Rand added that she had announced their engagement because she though "this whole thing was cut and dried — that Mrs. Greenough was going to get a diveorce as she said she would."

She made the announcement earlier this week while filling an engagement in a nearby Kentucky night club and Mrs. Greenough said yesterday that she was still Greenough's wife.

Banker Warns Patrons To Get Out of Debt; Foresees Depression

HARTINGTON, Neb., Oct. 4—(AP)—Get out of debt and strengthen your financial foundations, E. W. Rossiter's Bank of Hartington warns in a circular being distributed to patrons.

"There is only one thing for every sane man and woman to do. Put your house in order. Get ready for the worst storm and collapse of business following this war that the world has ever known. Get out of debt."

GRID TEAM IN CRASH ON ROAD

Woman Driver Arrested Result of Highway Fatality.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 4—(INS)—One man was dead and the coach and five members of Benld high school's football team were suffering from serious injuries today as result of a three-way crash of a bus, truck and automobile shortly before midnight last night. The bus driver, identified as Rollin Stehlin, 40, of Litchfield, was killed.

Players' Condition Critical.

Two of the players, Jack Robertson, halfback, and Louis Catberro, were in critical condition and were not expected to live. Robertson suffered a possible skull fracture, while Catberro incurred kidney injuries.

The accident occurred near Palmer as the team was returning victorious from a night game with Taylorville high school. Over 20 members of the football squad riding in the bus suffered cuts and bruises and required emergency hospital treatment.

Miss Georgia Jean Melsheimer of St. Louis, a nurse at a Chicago hospital, was driving the automobile, authorities said. She was charged with manslaughter today before Justice of the Peace D. E. Noonan and released on $2,000 bond.

VIEWMEN BAG GRID VICTORY

Southsiders Plunge, Then Toss Passes To Cinch Win at Tecumseh.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Oct. 4—College View used power plays to pile up yardage, then short aerial flips, in downing Tecumseh, 19-0, here Friday afternoon.

Drove At Tecumseh Line.

The field was muddy, so the Viewmen ripped the Chiefs' line apart. Paul Henson and Ivan Stern slashed off tackles and guard consistently. The first drive of this sort started on the College View 35 in the first period. Tecumseh couldn't stop the short plunges and Henson climaxed the advance by crossing from the four.

The Purple and Gold scored again in the second period, with Stern connecting on a short pass to that elongated end, Wayne Sawyer, for another six points. Again in the third quarter, Stern sighted Henson and fired another short pay-off toss.

Tecumseh never threatened and ran up but one first down. Coach Priefert used his second-stringers much the final period and they also stopped the locals.

Even student managers in college football are under suspicion of being allergic to the classrooms. At Iowa a S. M. ran the president right off the field. He didn't know who he was until the coach told him.

Midland, Kearney Still Unwhipped In College Circle

Midland and Kearney Normal kept their slates clean in Nebraska college football play Friday night—Midland by edging out Peru Normal 16-13, and Kearney by blanking Hastings, 18-0.

Creighton's Bluejays avenged last year's defeat by outfoxing the St. Louis Billikens, 18-8. The Billikens led twice, and twice the Bluejays scored quickly to assert their leadership.

Chadron Normal went calling on the Maryville, Mo., Normal, but the hosts were ungracious, beating the Eagles, 27-6.

Doane college had no trouble piling up a 37-6 score against York at Crete.

Man of Week in Sports.

(By International News Service.)

THE standout star of the world series today was selected as "Man Of the Week In Sports." The Dodgers openly proclaimed they must stop him, but they were unable to put him out in the first two games. His name is Joseph Lowell Gordon, second-baseman of the New York Yankees.

Five Walks; Three Hits.

Gordon has worked Brooklyn pitchers for five walks and slammed three hits in as many official trips to the plate. He batted home two of the runs in the Yankees' victory in the series opener. His hits included the only home run made in the series. One error was charged against him afield, but he more than made up for that by handling a number of almost impossible plays around the keystone bag.

"Stop Gordon" was the cry of the Flatbush Flock today as the teams prepared to renew their battles after rain forced postponement of the third game. Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers frankly told newsmen that "we've got to stop Gordon, because he seems to be the only guy they've got."

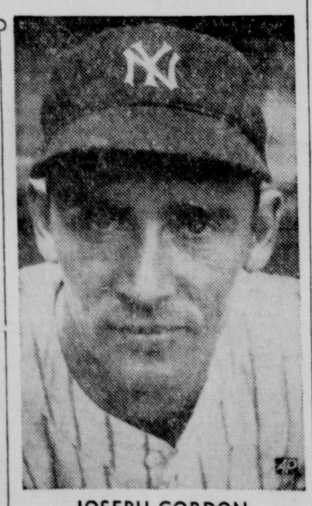

Native Of Citrus City.

Joe, 27 years old and married, is a native of Los Angeles and a college graduate. He interrupted his studies at the University of Oregon to play professional baseball when he joined the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast league in 1936. He also played football in high school, but put that game aside when his career on the diamond seemed assured.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees considers Gordon one of his best all-around players. Yankee Joe tried Infielder Joe at first base during the spring training session and Gordon clicked.

Goes Back to Second.

Something had to be done about a weakness at second, however, so Gordon was returned to that position and he made the change without difficulty. He also has played other spots on the infield.

JOSEPH GORDON

Gordon is not a .300 hitter, but, better, he is a clutch-hitter, driving in about 100 runs per season.

He was brought up from Newark in the 1938 season to replace the ageing Tony Lazzeri at second. In the series of that year, he batted .400. Through the first two games of this year's classic, he was hitting 1,000, making himself one of the greatest "money-players" in baseball.

Cyclones In Plot to Smear Nebraska's Grid Opener.

By DON KELLOGG.

AMES, Ia., Oct. 4—Ray Donels, Iowa State's new football coach who is ready to face what Nebraska dishes up here today, has this to say:

"We're ready and we're going to shoot the works. I think Iowa State has an excellent chance to win the ball game.

HUSKERS CONFRONTED.

That's the situation confronting Major "Biff" Jones and his band of 35 University of Nebraska Cornhuskers as they square off against the boys from Ames in the thirty-sixth meeting between the two institutions this afternoon.

Whether or not a few showers fall, a football-howling mob, numbering an anticipated 17,000, probably will be oh hand.

The end bleachers are up and not since Iowa State battled Oklahoma for the loop championship three years ago has the interest been as hot. That Saturday, 18,000 fans packed into the stands on Clyde Williams field.

LINE COACH CONFIDENT.

Doug Kerr, Cyclone line mentor, who is serving his first year after coming from Gary, Ind., high school, where he coached Tommy Harmon, is proud of his first-string line.

"They're OK," he'll tell you, "I'm short of reserves for every position, but that first team outfit has what it takes. My six guards are especially tough."

Royal "The Ace" Lohry, Iowa State halfback, is ready to start the all-important game, Coach Donels declares. Just how Lohry will do with his injured leg is a question.

Bob Lechtenburg, the No. 2 left halfback, whose job it is to replace Lohry, is definitely out of the contest, Lechtenburg was clipped in practice this week and is barely able to walk.

DARLING READY TO GO.

Paul Darling, regular fullback, whose educated toe factured so largely in that 7 to 6 Iowa State win over Denver last week, has fully recovered from a cold.

The small city of Ames is ready, so are the inspired Cyclones. Nebraska, extremely weak in the reserve department, will have to hustle to win its 1941 opener.

Still, this book says Nebraska. And from start until finish.

UNION BOWS TO CATHEDRAL HI

Six-Man Gridders From Cass County On Short End 25-6 Score.

The Cathedral Bluebirds know the tricks of this six-man pigskin trade. Union high discovered this fact as Coach Sandy Silverio's lads rambled over the boys from down east, 25-6, Friday afternoon at Bonacum Institute.

Costello the Spark Plug.

With Brother Maurie benched with a knee injury, Bob Costello turned out to be the Cathedral spark plug. The big fullback scored a trio of markers.

Dick Heuertz chalked up touchdown No. 1 in the first period by intercepting a flat pass and running 53 yards unmolested. Costello added a pair of six-pointers in the second canto on a 10-yard plunge and a recovered fumble in the end zone.

There was no scoring in the third period, but in the final the Bluebirds completed a hipper-dipper, with Shaheen tossing to Cades, who lateraled to Costello The play went 30 yards to paydirt.

The lone Union marker was produced against Cathedral subs. End Becker picked off a stray Cathedral lateral and ran it half the length of the field to prevent a shutout.

The luncheon, an annual affair, will begin at 11:30 at the university coliseum. All Husker letter winners are invited. Varsity men of '30 and '31 will be honored guests.

Star Sluggers Fizzle

— But Gordon Delivers

By LAWTON CARVER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(INS)—the world series in baseball nearly always has been a pitcher's proposition, with the result that the greatest goats of the classic generally are outstanding hitters of the regular season who are stopped cold when the final chips are down. Take the current series. The only three regulars held hitless so far are Pete Reiser, th National league batting champion; Dixie Walker, who helped to drive the Dodgers to the pennant, and Joe DiMaggio, record-breaking hit manufacturer of the Yankees.

PECULIAR SITUATION.

The significance of this peculiar situation of the moment is best revealed by the attitude of the ball players of the two clubs themselves. When you stand around and talk to the Dodgers, as nearly everybody did yesterday while the rain poured down outside, they said in effect:

GORDON

"We'll do much better soon as we get going, especially when Dixie and Pete get to hitting."

The slightly more aloof but not entirely unapproachable Yankees expressed their disappointment and surprise over DiMaggio's poor showing and remarked with a knowing nod:

"We've done this well without much punch, what'll we do when DiMaggio begins to pound the ball?"

BOTH MAY BE WRONG.

It could be that both sides are a little wrong. There is no guarantee that Walker or Reiser or DiMaggio will knock the stitches out of the ball in this series, for when the pitchers get around to them they are bearing down with all they've got, and the heroes on the offensive might very well be the least impressive hitters of the past season.

I tried to get from Reiser and DiMaggio in particular the secret of their great lack of success, but they covered it all with a shrug and the promise that they would begin to bang out some bingles any minute now.

While they are thus hoping for a turn in the tide, Joe Gordon goes on s the outstanding batting performer of the entire series of two games to date, with his batting average of 1000. In the first game, he hit a home run, drove in another run with a single and walked twice. In the second contest, he singled once and walked three times.

PRAISED BY DUROCHER.

Greatest tribute to the Yankee second-baseman came from Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, who explained his attitude toward the Yankee hitting with this:

"We're not worried about Dimaggio and the rest of them except Gordon. He's the guy we've got to watch."

Durocher may be wrong—and that wouldn't be the first time either—but his remarks give you a rough idea of what they think of Gordon in baseball, not only as a fielder, but also as a ball-powderer.

The only other players besides Gordon who have as many as three hits so far are Joe Medwick and PeWee Reese, both of the Dodgers. But they are hitting .375, contrasted with Gordon's 1.000.

HEROES AND GOATS.

And so it goes when what are ostensibly the greatest stars of the year get together in the series, with its heroes and its goats almost equally divided between the two teams each year. Just as it is extremely difficult to pick with any assurance the winning club in so short an engagement, it is hard to select any one individual who may stand out through the seven or fewer games.

As a matter of fact, the records seem to indicate that the pitchers generally are the stars.

That is the way the thing is shaping up in this series, too. The Dodgers have made 12 hits and the Yankees 15 in two games, which is certainly no reflection on the hurlers.

And neither is the fact that Gordon, with three hits, is the hitting star of both sides to date.

WILDCATS PICK ON PLAINSMEN

Wayne Little Bothered In Hanging 32-7 Defeat On Wesleyan.

It required Coach Jim Morrison's Wayne Wildcat pupils a bit of time to get started but, once on the way, they gathered up steam and humbled the Plainsmen, 32-7, Friday night at the Nebraska Wesleyan bowl.

Fitch On Long Romp.

The Wildcat steam exploded on a break late in the first period. Plainsman Larry Vaughn fumbled the ball into the arms of 220-pound Harold Fitch, Wayne tackle, scooped up the pigskin and raced 48 yards unmolested.

After that, Wesleyan folded. In the second period, Best gathered in a pass from Mate Purtzer for another touchdown. The combination succeeded again before the half ended, carrying the ball to the Wesleyan three, from where Purtzer plunged across.

"Bugs" Bowmaster passed for considerable Wesleyan yardage the third period and Don Maus plunged from the three for the single Wesleyan tally. Later, Wayne took to the airways again, with Mandl and Kozisek scoring.

HUSKERS HOPE SET NEW MARK FOR BIFF

The Cornhuskers will attempt at Ames today to present their coach, Major "Biff" Jones, with a new consecutive game-scoring record. Nebraska meets Iowa State in opening its football season.

The Huskers have scored in 21 consecutive games. Twice before during his career, Jones-coached teams have scored 21 straight.

DUKE V. VOLS IN DIXIE CLASSIC

Carolina Clan Taking On Tennessee In Today's Feature Game.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Forty-five thousand football addicts can't be wrong and so Duke starts its drive for another bowl bid by meeting Tennessee today before that many paying customers at Durham, N. C., in the top game on a football schedule which sees the start of numerous conference races.

Buckeyes Trek to Coast.

Sharing some of the interest with the Duke-Tennessee feud are two ranking intersectional contests — Southern Methodist against Fordham here and Ohio State's make-or-break journey to Southern California.

Wallace Wade, Duke tutor, has one of the finest lines in the south and a brilliant array of backs ready for the Volunteers, who appear this year without their famed coach, Major Bob Neyland.

Neyland, back in the army after six years as the boss of the Volunteers, will be in the stands to watch little Johnny Butler torment the Blue Devils. John Barnhill succeeded Neyland as coach of the Volunteers.

Sophomore Sensation.

Fordham also expects to turn loose a sophomore sensation in Joe Andrejco, whirlwind halfback. The Texas Mustangs offer Preston Johnson, outstanding punter, and Howard Maley, passer.

Ohio State, still the Big Ten mystery team despite its 12 to 7 triumph over Missouri, goes against a Southern California machine that claims several of its stalwarts will perform below par because of injuries. The Buckeyes' long trip and the west coast sun are expected to aid the far westerners.

In the Big Ten area, Indiana turns Billy Hillenbrand loose against Notre Dame and Iowa goes to Michigan for the first conference contest.

Gophers Have Day Off.

Minnesota is idle, but Purdue, 3 to 0 victim of Vanderbilt last Saturday, will try to right itself at Pittsburgh's expense. Wisconsin takes on Marquette and Northwestern works out at the expense of Kansas State.

Cornell, whose uniforms are virtually the only resemblance to the "Big Red" machine of a year ago, entertains a tough Syracuse outfit while Columbia, with only five backs of varsity caliber, is ready for the Brown invasion.

Other eastern attractions find Virginia testing Yale and The Citadel at Army. Harvard's eleven is at Pennsylvania and navy takes on West Virginia. Buffalo fans will see Penn State and Colgate.

Sharing the Dixie billing with the Duke-Tennessee affair are Tulane vs. Auburn and Alabama and Mississippi State.

Nebraska, expected to turn from power to passes, mixes with Iowa State. Deep in the southwest, Texas meets the once-mighty Tigers of Louisiana State.

The Southwest conference season opens with Texas Christian the foe of Arkansas.

Stanford, the Rose Bowl wonder a year ago but winner by less than a touchdown last Saturday, goes against U. C. L. A. while Washington State tangles with the promising University of California squad. Washington, loser to Minnesota in its opener, collides with Oregon State.

Colorado steps out of the Rocky mountain area for a visit to Missouri while Colorado State and Wyoming take over the spotlight at home.

South Carolina and Georgia tangle in an interconference affair, as do Kentucky and Washington & Lee, but eight other members of the southern circuit get right down to the task of picking a conference leader.

Clemson visits North Carolina State. Davidson is the guest of North Carolina and potent Furman meets equally-potent Wake Forest. Virginia Poly and Georgetown also are carded.

SOX REPEAT AT CUBS' EXPENSE

Chicago White Hose Win Second Game of Lake City Series.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs are in a fair way to finish a strong second in the city baseball series with the White Sox.

Make It Two Straight.

The American leaguers, who haven't lost a city series decision to the Cubs in a decade, rolled on to their second straight victory last night and now need only two more to clinch the municipal championship. Ted Lyons whipped the Cubs in the series opener Wednesday and Thursday's game was rained out.

Manager Jimmy Dykes will send Johnny Rigney against the Cubs' Jake Mooty in the third game tonight at Comiskey Park.

Southpaw Eddie Smith scattered nine hits to the Cubs last night for a 6 to 4 triumph, snuffing out a ninth-inning rally after two runs had scored.

The Sox built up a four-run lead off Vern Olsen early in the game and added one in the seventh off John Schmitz and another in the eighth on Taft Wright's homer. Bob Kennedy also hit for the circuit for the Sox. Bill Knickerbocker was the other hitting star, collecting four of the team's 10 hits. The score:

Baylor Bobs Up With Hot Rival For Albert

DENVER, Oct. 4—(INS)—Satisfied that his Baylor eleven will figure prominently in the Southwest conference race and his great star, Jack Wilson, will give Stanford's Frankie Albert a terrific battle for All-American quarterback honors, Coach Frank Kimbrough today was flying to Fayetteville, Ark.

Shortly after his eleven pinned a 14-0 defeat upon Denver university last night, Kimgrough bid farewell to his team and left to scout today's contest between Arkansas and Texas Christian. Baylor plays Arkansas next Saturday.

Baylor scored two touchdowns in the first half and then coasted to victory over Denver before an overcoated crowd of 12,000.

Wilson, tabbed as the college world's No. 1 prospect for pro football next season, dominated the play, doing everything—ripping off huge chunks of yardage, passing and kicking and proving himself a demon on defense.

Since night baseball was introduced in the major leagues, the Cincinnati Reds have won 36 and lost 21.

Fairbury Hi Victim Surprising Upset

YORK, Neb., Oct. 4—Fairbury high was the victim of a surprising upset here last night. The Jeffs ran smack dab into a pair of talented York high gridders and the pair was responsible for the 26-14 defeat of Clair Sloan's team.

Wilbur Craig and Jim Meyers were the two Duke gunners. Meyers scored in the opening period after York had recovered a Fairbury fumble. The same sequence of events accounted for another marker the second period after the invaders' Frank Shipman had scored on a pass play good for 50 yards.

York wasn't headed from then on. Craig scored on jaunts of 55 and 32 yards. Shipman rang up the other Jeff tally, piercing the line from the 19-yard line.

Golf tournaments can be profitable. This year's Hurst invitational at Philadelphia drew 26,000 spectators who paid $27,500.

Lincoln Hi Shows Punch

— In Drubbing Sioux City

By PAUL DINNIS.

JUST try to throw a scare into this Lincoln high football team. The net result will be a deficit for your own grid club. At least that's what Sioux City East found out Friday night at the L. H. S. oval as Coach Ralph Beechner's lads won going away, 21-13.

SUCKERED BY OLD ONE.

Funny thing of it was that it was the time-worn "Statue of Liberty" play that the Red and Black fell sucker to. The play brought East its second touchdown and the count would have been tied had not Ken Jones missed on his placekick try.

The fans expected the fireworks to fly from Lincoln's "T" formation from the start, and they weren't disappointed during the first period. Starting a drive on their own 43, the Red and Black flashed deception a-plenty in rolling upfield unstopped.

Power plays off the "T" gained consistent yardage and in eight plays the ball rested on the East 21 yard stripe.

Then Eddie Hall called a back-in-motion play. Les West streaked for the flank and he picked off Hall's perfect toss on the six-yard line and struggled over from there. Sub Harold Hawkins, the place-kicking expert, rushed in and booted the extra point.

BOEHMER POWERS THROUGH.

The second scoring thrust came shortly after the second period got under way. Leo Starkel had blocked a Raider punt and Bob Glenn recovered on the East 25. East was offside and Boehmer plunged to the ten. Glenn and Hall each added a yard and Boehmer powered through center from the eight, dragging a couple tacklers to pay dirt.

The Black Raiders also scored before the half was up. Hall was called upon to punt due to West's minor ankle injury and the left side of the East line was in on him before he could deliver. East recovered on the Lincoln 15. Speedster Bob Lee reversed to the six-yard line, whereupon Fullback McLaughlin pierced center after three stabs to score from the four. Jones' try-for-point was good.

The third period mostly was uneventful, but the outlook darkened as East started a drive from mid-field early in the final canto. Sub Joe Grimaskas came in and started an aerial flurry. One of the passes connected to Pentony and the play carried to a first down on Lincoln's 25-yard line.

LEE GOES ACROSS.

On the next play, Lee grabbed the torch from the "Statue of Liberty" play, cut inside left end, broke away from a pair of would-be tacklers and scored standing up. Jones' kick was low, though, and Lincoln still was one point to the good.

The final points came on a 76-yard drive as the Lincoln offense clicked again. Boehmer climaxed it, bowling over from the four. With but four minutes remaining in the game, Beechner sent in his subs.

With the win over East, Beechner now has that gleam in his eye which ogles the Little Missouri Valley crown. The win came about as result his finely balanced team. Several lads do come in for special commendation, though.

Leo Starkel, a surprise opener at guard, turned in a good performance. Game-captain Neil McPherson loomed up in the line, as did Jerry Regelean. Les West was effective on offense until injured and Boehmer was up to his usual line-busting tactics. East's big guns were Peterson at tackle and Halfback Bob Hasbrook.
